DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claims 1-10 and 12-14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Pham et al (5,663,474) in view of Olah (5,073,674).

Pham discloses an alkylation process of aliphatic or aromatic hydrocarbon with olefin in the presence of solid polymeric hydrogen fluoride catalyst (the abstract; col. 2, lines 17-51; col. 4, lines 38-57).

Pham does not disclose using a polyhydrogen fluoride (see entire patent for details). However, Olah discloses that liquid onium polyhydrogen fluoride can be used as a safe alkylation catalyst (the abstract; col. 1, lines 11-68).

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have modified the Pham process by using liquid onium polyhydrogen fluoride in the place of hydrogen fluoride of the Pham catalyst since it is expected that using polyhydrogen fluoride or hydrogen fluoride would yield similar results. Applicants are reminded that it has been established that closely relate homologs, analogs and isomers in chemistry may create a prima facie case of obviousness. In re Dillon 16 USPQ 2d 1897, 1904 (Fed. Cir. 1990); In re Payne 203 USPQ 245 (CCPA 1979); In re Mills 126 USPQ 513 (CCPA 1960); In re Henze 85 USPQ 261 (CCPA 1950); In re Haas 60 USPQ 544 (CCPA 1944).

Sulfonylation of alkyl-aromatic is well-known to be used for production of detergent.

Olah discloses that the reaction is carried out in the presence of Lewis acid (col. 2, lines 58-65).

The limitation of claim 12 can be found on column 2, lines 30-33.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claim 11 is allowed.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 3/28/05 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

The argument that Pham would not have motivated one having ordinary skill in the art to modify its teachings (i.e. no complexation) by using Olah's polyhydrogen fluoride complex where there is complexation is not persuasive since Pham teaches avoiding the complex between the carrier (solid) with the hydrogen fluoride, not the fluoride with others (see entire patent for details). Note that the complex in Olah is between the fluoride and others not the carrier in the Pham reference.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
